Abstract
You are living in a town with several land masses and bridges connecting them. When your friend visits, she asks to take a walk and cross all the bridges, but not cross any of them more than once. You've never tried that, and you're not sure if it's possible. In this talk, we will discuss how you can figure out if your friend can go on the walk she wants.