Adjunct Faculty Reception:
Library & Information Literacy Services
Friday, April 19, 2013
4:30-6:00 p.m. in Salomon Hall

All adjunct and part-time Faculty members are invited to the Center for Educational Excellence’s annual Adjunct Faculty Reception. This year, Copley Librarian’s Hugh Burkhart and Lisa Burgert will join Monica Stufft to share information about the Information Literacy Pilot Project at USD and Information Literacy services available from Copley Library.

Advancing academic excellence is primary to USD’s mission, and this is a fantastic opportunity to discuss ways faculty can better equip themselves, as well as their students, to understand information literacy. Attendees will leave with an understanding of information literacy and practical ways to incorporate it into their courses. The goal of the Copley Librarians is to have an information literate community who recognize when information is needed and have the ability to locate, evaluate, and use information in an ethical manner.

Please join us for this wine & hors d’oeuvre event.
Kindly RSVP by Tuesday, April 16, 2013

Sex and the Soul:
A Forum on Reproductive Health at USD
Tuesday, April 30, 2013
12:45-2:15 p.m. in UC Forum B

Sex and the Soul: A Forum on Reproductive Health at USD will explore USD’s campus culture surrounding sexual and reproductive health. We will consider how USD’s Mission and Catholic Identity calls us to have these sometimes difficult conversations, and explore ways to better serve our students. All students, faculty, and staff are welcome to attend.

Lunch will be provided. Please register by April 25, 2013 so we can get an accurate head count.

Restorative Justice Workshop

Friday, April 19, 2013
9:00 a.m.-12:00 p.m. in Salomon Hall
Justine Darling
USD Interim Community Director for Residential Life

This event is cosponsored by the Center for Catholic Thought and Culture and the CEE

Restorative justice involves sustained attempts to rebuild communities, relationships and trusts in situations where there have been serious wrongs that have blighted the lives of individuals and communities. In recent decades it has been applied in situations of severe conflict and injustice such as post-apartheid South Africa, Northern Ireland, and El Salvador. Increasingly, the notion of restorative justice is being used for renewal and reform in organizations and institutions seeking to manage change more positively. Join us for a workshop where the concepts and processes of restorative justice will be explained and explored to help members of USD and local communities identify how it can play a major part in building a brighter future for their collective lives.

Justine Darling earned a BA in psychology from USD and completed the Joan B. Kroc School of Peace Studies master’s program in peace and justice studies. Both academic pursuits, as well as a one-year stint in the Jesuit Volunteer Corps, have helped shape her current passion. She worked previously as USD’s Restorative Justice Coordinator and currently as Interim Community Director for Residential Life.

Coffee will be provided.

CEE Travel Grant Presentations

Reacting to the Past

Tuesday, April 16, 2013
12:15-2:15 p.m. in Salomon Hall

This workshop, presented by CEE Travel Grant recipient, Evelyn A. Kirkley, Ph.D. (Theology and Religious Studies) and Molly McClain, Ph.D. (History), will provide participants with new ideas about engaging students using active learning pedagogies, specifically, a program called Reacting to the Past (RTTP). According to the Barnard College website, “RTTP consists of elaborate games, set in the past, in which students are assigned roles informed by classic texts in the history of ideas. Class sessions are run entirely by students; instructors advise and guide students and grade their oral and written work. It seeks to draw students into the past, promote engagement with big ideas, and improve intellectual and academic skills.” Ways to align course activities and assessments to USD’s core curriculum learning goals will be discussed and a “mini-game” will be played to experience this unique pedagogy.

Mobile Apps for Teaching, Research, and Library Services

Friday, April 19, 2013
12:20-1:45 p.m. in KIPJ – E & F

CEE Travel Grant recipient, Li Fu, will engage you in exploring selected language learning apps and an EndNote app to show how they can be applied in the classroom and research, respectively. You will also discover how you can use your mobile device to easily navigate library holdings, receive notifications, and more!

Lunch will be provided at both presentations.
