PATRON SUGGESTION

October 7, 2008

The bands that play in front of the University Center at lunch can often be heard inside the 2nd floor reading room even with earplugs in. Any chance we could get the University Center to turn the volume down a notch or two.

LIBRARY RESPONSE

October 16, 2008

We have contacted the University Center administration with your request, which I know is of concern to other patrons and to the law school, which often hosts lunchtime lecture programs. They say that they have already lowered the decibel level from 100 to 80. They will look into decreasing the sound further, and we will follow up next time the issue arises.
