Patron Suggestion

Thank you for finally taking my advice to move the microfiche section to provide more study area. When I suggested it two years ago, you rejected the idea. But now I see you have realized the wisdom in moving from the archaic to modern. Today I wish to report a malfunctioning clock in the east side of the California room.

We appreciate your interest in improving library services. The microfiche cabinet move did not actually create any additional study space overall, but the law students really appreciate and use the study tables that were moved to the west side of the Information Services area.

The battery in the clock has been replaced. You may have noticed by the suggestion box a sign recommending that you report out of order items directly to the circulation or reference desk for quicker response time.
