Patron Suggestion

December 9, 2006

This is a strange request, but this has been a problem for me on several occasions. Some people wear too much cologne or perfume which causes me a headache and it's hard to get away from. I have to move but with so many books it's really a hassle. I just don't think that wearing cologne/perfume is really necessary to just go sit in a cubicle to study for finals! It's just so inconsiderate to others. Not sure if you can even do anything about that, but just wanted to let you know.

Thank you,
Angie

Angie, you have my sympathy. I run into the same issue occasionally on public transit. And you're right; it's not within my power to prevent. All I can do is commiserate!
