Movements of popular protest in the Arab and Muslim world have resulted in alternating cycles of euphoric hope and horrific conflicts. This panel will focus on recent and current developments in Egypt, Syria and Iran, while analyzing their regional and global implications.

Hope and Conflict in Egypt, Syria, and Iran

a panel discussion

University of San Diego’s
Joan B. Kroc School of Peace Studies Theater
Tuesday October 15th, 7:00 – 9:00 pm.

Doors will open at 6:30 pm.

Movements of popular protest in the Arab and Muslim world have resulted in alternating cycles of euphoric hope and horrific conflicts. This panel will focus on recent and current developments in Egypt, Syria and Iran, while analyzing their regional and global implications.

featuring:

Dr. Michael Provence
Associate Professor of History at the University of California, San Diego, author of The Great Syrian Revolt and the Rise of Arab Nationalism as well as a number of articles, including “Unraveling the Syrian Revolution.”

Dr. Thomas Reifer
Associate Professor of Sociology and Affiliate Faculty in the Department of Ethnic Studies, University of San Diego, Associate Fellow at the Transnational Institute, a worldwide fellowship of committed scholars-activists, author of The “Arab 1848”: Reflections on US Policies and the Power of Non-Violence as well as a number of articles, including “The Road to Hell is Paved with “Humanitarian Interventions”: Western Violence, the Hippocratic Oath and the Second Arab Revolt.”

Dr. Babak Rahimi
Associate Professor of Communication, Culture and Religion at the Department of Literature, University of California, San Diego, author of Theater State and the Formation of Early Modern Public Sphere in Iran: Studies on Safavid Muharram Rituals, 1590-1641 C.D. as well as a number of scholarly articles and book chapters, including "Facebook Iran. The Carnivalesque Politics of Online Social Networking."

Sponsored by the Center for Community Service Learning, the Social Issues Committee, The Joan B. Kroc School of Peace Studies and Karama: The Arab and Islamic World Information Project.