

Full Time Non-Tenure Track
Faculty Opportunity in
Geological/physical/chemical Environmental Science
Environmental and Ocean Sciences Department
University of San Diego

The University of San Diego (USD) department of Environmental and Ocean Sciences (EOSC) invites applications for a full-time non-tenure track faculty (benefits based on a 9-month contract) to teach courses in geological/physical/chemical environmental science during and beyond the 2019-20 academic year. USD is an independent Catholic university whose primary aim is teaching excellence. The faculty member will teach 18-24 units (6-8 lectures or labs per year) of mostly freshman/sophomore-level lectures and laboratory sections, and some junior/senior/graduate (MS)-level courses. Courses may include the following: Introduction to Geosciences (EOSC 110), Natural Disasters (EOSC 105), Introduction to Atmospheric and Ocean Sciences (EOSC 220), Environmental Data Analysis (EOSC 222), History of Earth and Climate (EOSC 474), Geological Oceanography (EOSC 450), Marine Geochemistry (EOSC 452), and Environmental Issues (EOSC 300). In addition, we will consider "Special Topics" courses in the faculty member's area of expertise. Course descriptions can be found at: <http://www.sandiego.edu/cas/environmental-ocean-sciences/program/?area=courses>. In addition to teaching, the faculty may have an opportunity for leadership in department-sponsored high-school science outreach programs (for additional compensation). Participating in collaborative research and mentoring student research is possible during the summer. EOSC faculty maintain strong ties with marine and environmental researchers at multiple local institutions.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vita, list of two references, a statement of interest which discusses teaching philosophy, qualifications and experience, and a list of potential courses in our curriculum. In addition, if applicable, please briefly discuss your interest and experience in STEM educational outreach. All application materials should be submitted as a single pdf file via e-mail to Soroya Rowley (soroya@sandiego.edu) with the subject line "EOSC Faculty Search". Further questions can be directed to Sarah Gray (sgray@sandiego.edu).

Qualifications: PhD preferred but not required, teaching experience at the college/university level required.

This is an 9-month benefits based position. The University of San Diego offers a very competitive benefits package, to include medical, dental, vision, a 12% retirement contribution given to you by the University (with three-year vesting period), and access to on-campus Fitness Centers. For full consideration, materials must be received by April 16th, 2019. Persons offered employment in this position will be required to provide documents for degree verification and complete a background check.
