

SUBJECT - Spring 2020: When is a Tuesday a Thursday and a Wednesday a Friday?

USD faculty and students,

When is a Tuesday a Thursday and a Wednesday a Friday? Next semester!

On Tuesday, May 12, classes will meet as if it were Thursday. On Wednesday, May 13, classes will meet as if it were Friday.

Please view the Academic Calendar FAQs below for further details.

Sincerely,
Dr. Herrinton

Academic Calendar FAQs:

What does “A Tuesday is a Thursday and a Wednesday is a Friday” actually mean?

This change means that on Tuesday, May 12 classes will meet as if it were Thursday. On Wednesday, May 13 classes will meet as if it were Friday.

What does “Thursday-Friday” class Schedule on “Tuesday-Wednesday” mean?

This change means that on Tuesday, classes normally scheduled for Thursday will meet; and on Wednesday, classes normally scheduled for Friday will meet.

Why is this happening?

This change equalizes the number of class meetings held on each day of the week in each term, so that there are the same number of instructional days for each day of the week in the Spring 2020 semester.

What about me? I have a Tuesday only, Wednesday only and/or a Monday/Wednesday class. Does my schedule change on those two days?

Yes! When you wake up on the morning of Tuesday, May 12, pretend that it is a Thursday. When you wake up on the morning of Wednesday, May 13 pretend that it is a Friday. Go to the classes you would normally attend on those days. If you have no classes scheduled on “Thursday” or “Friday,” then you don’t go to class!

Who can I contact to ask a question?

Dr. Tom Herrinton, Vice Provost in the Office of the Vice President and Provost. He can be reached at herrinton@sandiego.edu