Adler	Christopher	PhD	Faculty	Music (CAS)	Roi Et, Thailand	July 7 - Aug 5, 2019	Purchasing	Acquisition of new musical instruments: The primary purpose of this trip will be to purchase top-quality khaen (Northeast Thai/Lao bamboo free-reed mouth organs) from one of the best makers in Thailand, in the city of Roi Et. These hand-made instruments can only be purchased directly from the makers themselves. I have established a reputation over the past two decades as one of the leading players of this instrument, and one of the only players in the world commissioning and performing contemporary notated compositions for this instrument. However, I have been using instruments which are now over 15 years old and it is time for them to be replaced.
Buchmann	Amy	PhD	Faculty	Mathematics (CAS)	Valencia, Spain	July 13th - July 21st	Conference	Title: Presenting at and Attending the 2019 International Congress on Industrial and Applied Mathematics The 2019 International Congress on Industrial and Applied Mathematics (ICIAM) will bring together top scientists from across the globe working in the area of Applied Mathematics. ICIAM, known as "a society of societies" with member societies from all continents, aims to connect applied mathematicians from all over the world. I'm an applied mathematician working the field of mathematical biology, and will be presenting in a mini-symposium. Attending this conference will give me the opportunity to present my research, and learn about the latest worldwide trends in applied mathematics.
Campbell	Colin	PhD	Faculty	Marketing (School of Business)	London, UK	November 25 - 1, 2019	Research	Investigating the Effectiveness of Influencer Marketing: An International Perspective An advertising industry contact of mine recently started a new job as insights director for a global influencer management advertising agency in London, UK. Influencers refer to people that are paid by brands to promote products or services to their social media audiences. While the agency is currently revising their insights systems in order to collect more detailed information on influencers, this process will be complete in the next several months. I will then have access to proprietary data on all of their influencers and associated ad campaigns run worldwide, as well as related success metrics. Using this international dataset, myself and international co-authors will investigate what affects the success of influencer campaigns and this success is impacted by international location and culture. Funding is requested in order to a) visit the agency's development team in order to extract and analyze data and b) investigate the possible integration of automated image analysis tools.
Chapman	Mark	PhD	Faculty	Integrated Engineering (School of Engineering)	Stockholm, Sweden	July 15 - August 15, 2019	Research	Skeletal muscle proteomic investigation in long-term trained athletes. The purpose of this trip is to conduct a research visit with my collaborators at the Karolinska Institute in Stockholm, Sweden. I plan on visiting the research group of Dr. Carl Johan Sundberg who was my postdoctoral advisor prior to becoming employed at USD. We are currently working on numerous projects together investigating how long-term exercise alters gene expression, metabolism and health in human skeletal muscle. The purpose of my trip this summer is to further develop our collaboration by performing a proteomic analysis of our collected samples.
Chen	Zhenhua	PhD	Faculty	Accounting (School of Business)	Shanghai, China	June 25 - August 10, 2019	Research	Culture, Politics and Business Decision Making
Cornwall	G. Bryan	PhD, MBA, PEng	Faculty	Mechanical Engineering (School of Engineering)	Calgary, Canada & Vancouver, Canada	July 30 - August 17, 2019	Conference & Research	2019 International Society of Biomechanics scientific meeting and International Spine Biomechanics research study. The proposed travel is to participate in the International Society of Biomechanics (ISB) conference held in conjunction with the American Society of Biomechanics (ASB) annual meeting and to perform a research visit collecting data for an international, multi-laboratory research protocol. The conference is a very important opportunity to network with international leaders in this field. As new faculty to USD, I have been asked to co-develop a curriculum in Biomedical Engineering in the Shiley-Marcos School of Engineering. Participation at a renowned international conference would be fantastic for building upon a foundation and contribute to my goals of exemplary teaching and research at USD. The research study is also critical for my academic research performance and for raising the reputation of USD with international collaborators. I am leading the study and plan to complete some data collection at one of the collaborators research laboratories at the University of British Columbia (UBC) in Vancouver, Canada.
DeConinck	Kate	ThD	Faculty	Theology & Religious Studies (CAS)	Johannesburg & Makuleke, South Africa	July 17 - August 1, 2019	Research	"The Churches of Makuleke: Religion and Social Trauma in a Post-Apartheid Village" This proposed research project analyzes how local churches address and mediate the trauma of Apartheid—specifically the forced seizure of Makuleke lands by the South Africa government in the 1960s. Through site visits, attendance at religious services, and interviews with local community members, I will investigate the various resources that religious institutions are providing to a community that is still grappling with the social trauma they endured. This project will deepen USD's existing relationships with community partners in South Africa while also documenting and analyzing the religious dynamics that inhere in this village, which have not been addressed in any of the existing publications and scholarship about Makuleke.
Del Rio	Esteban	PhD	Faculty & Admin	Communication (CAS)	Trelawny, Jamaica	July, 2019	Research & Community Engagement	Jamaica Community Engagement Partnership Development and Research Visit. This visit with our partners in Duncans, Jamaica will build continuity in community partnerships necessary for course-based community learning for engagement and study abroad visits with students and faculty. It also allows for invested partners, including myself, to build transatlantic connections with students and faculty in San Diego and London, U.K. Given that John Loggins and I have presented on this partnership, our goal would be to conduct interviews to complete a research project for a community engagement journal.

Fleming-Davies	Arietta	PhD	Faculty	Biology (CAS)	Valencia, Spain	July 13-20, 2019	Conference & Meeting with Collaborators	International and interdisciplinary mathematical biology collaborations at ICIAM: I will be traveling to Valencia, Spain to participate in a minisymposium entitled "Genomics to Populations: Mathematical Views of Modelling Biological Scales" at the International Congress on Industrial and Applied Mathematics (ICIAM), an interdisciplinary conference that attracts mathematicians from across the world. As a biologist who uses mathematical techniques in her disease ecology research, this is a unique opportunity for me to develop connections to international applied mathematicians for future collaborations. In addition, my current disease ecology research is focused on a disease of a butterfly that is introduced but not native to California. Developing connections with international collaborators will also facilitate the next stage of my field research, in which I hope to compare the ecology of this host-pathogen system in its native and introduced ranges.
Goldschmied	Nadav	PhD	Faculty	Psychological Sciences (CAS)	Tel Aviv, Israel	July 20-25, 2019	Research	Enhance collaborative research with Dr. Yair Galily at the IDC
Gramme	Bridget	JD	Admin & Adjunct Faculty	Center for Public Interest Law (School of Law)	Edinburgh, Scotland	September 3-8, 2019	Conference	I propose to attend the International Conference of Legal Regulators in Edinburgh, Scotland in order to continue my work on legal profession reform in the US with an eye towards access to justice. This conference is specifically designed to bring together regulators of the legal profession (and those who study its regulation) from all over the world in order to share best practices, learn from one another, and collectively discuss important issues in public protection as it relates to the legal field. As new technology continues to emerge – particularly in the legal sector– a global perspective on how to handle these issues from a regulatory standpoint is vital. I participated in the conference last year and established valuable relationships that I wish to build upon this year as I continue to research and advocate on this topic in my work at the Center for Public Interest Law.
Guerrieri	Kevin	PhD	Faculty	College of Arts & Sciences, Dept. of Languages, Cultures & Literatures	Bogotá, Colombia	July 12-22	Conference & Research	"Historia, denuncia e intertextualidad: la representación del pueblo wayuu en Palabro de Philip Potdevin " (Historia, Denouncement, and Intertextuality: Representation of the Wayuu Nation in Palabro by Philip Potdevin) - I will be traveling to Bogotá, Colombia in July to present a paper, "Historia, denuncia e intertextualidad: la representación del pueblo wayuu en Palabro de Philip Potdevin ," at the XXI International Conference of the Asociación de Colombianistas (July 15-17). This research project focuses on the representation of the Wayuu indigenous people, who inhabit the Guajira peninsula in northeastern Colombia and around Maracaibo lake in Venezuela, by Philip Potdevin, a non-Wayuu writer from Cali, Colombia. In addition, I will be conducting research during my stay in Bogotá. My research focuses on Colombian cultural production, including literary works, film, music, and other cultural products.
Harnish	David	PhD	Faculty	Music (CAS)	Bangkok, Thailand	July 10 - July 18, 2019	Conference	Present research and participate in the International Council for Traditional (ICTM) Music 45th biennial Conference at Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok, Thailand. The proposal is for support to present my paper, "Ideation and Variance within Islamic Performance on Lombok, Indonesia" in the planned panel, "Islam, Sufism and Performing Arts in Southeast Asia." I also serve on the executive committee of PASEA, a study group of ICTM and we will have an auxiliary meeting at the conference.
Kalyanpur	Maya	PhD	Faculty	Learning & Teaching (SOLES)	Magamba, Tanzania	July 14 to 17th, 2019	Conference	The purpose of travel is to present at and attend the 16th Biennial International Conference of the International Association on Special Education (IASE) from July 14th to 17th, 2019. My presentation, titled Assessing for Learning Disabilities in India, is based on the findings of a research study funded by the Fulbright Foundation, which enabled me to collect data in India in the summer of 2017 and 2018. The presentation focuses on the challenges of assessing students from non-English-speaking backgrounds for learning disabilities within a context of a multilingual society like India. By presenting in this international forum, I will disseminate my findings to professionals in the field from other multilingual, developing countries who might benefit from the lessons learned in India. As a reviewer for the association journal, JIASE, I also plan to network with faculty at IASE to continue my research on international special education.
Karapetian	Farah	Assistant Professor: MFA	Faculty	Art, Architecture + Art History; Photography Area Lead (CAS)	Paris, France; Amsterdam, the Netherlands; Baku, Azerbaijan	July 15 - August 15	Research	Experiential Photography: Daguerre's Dioramas, the Female Gaze, and Peacemaking. My travel plans for late summer 2019 are oriented around research for two upcoming museum projects and execution of a peacemaking endeavor. For the first, I must see Daguerre's only extant diorama; for the second, I must analyze the space for which I and two other artists will produce work asserting the physical perspective of the female gaze in photography; and for the third, I will execute a project with vulnerable populations in the South Caucasus.
Kull	Alexander	PhD	Faculty	Marketing (School of Business)	Frankfurt, Germany	July–August 2019	Research	I have developed a research partnership with co-authors from IPAG Business School, France, and Reutlingen University, Germany, consisting of two internationally focused research projects that we need to push forward this summer through additional data collection in France and Germany. Project 1, whose preliminary findings I presented at last year's IRBAM Conference in Nice, France, examines the role of cross-cultural differences in how artificial intelligence impacts consumer–brand relationships. Project 2 explores the role of trust in international online communities. Both papers are intended to be published in internationally renowned journals.
Loggins	John	MA	Admin	Mulvaney Center	Falmouth, Jamaica	Late July or Early August	Research & Data Collection	The Relationships That Build Strong International Programs I would like to travel back to Jamaica to explore, examine and celebrate the partnerships that are the foundation for our Jamaica Study Abroad program. This summer I'd like to use an International Opportunity Grant to interview and gather reflections from our longstanding, beloved partners. In compiling these reflections it is my hope that we will be able to generate a narrative of the strong connections required to establish a long standing, mutually beneficial, international partnership.

Lord	Susan	PhD	Faculty	Integrated Engineering (School of Engineering)	Capetown, South Africa	July 10-12, 2019	Conference	"Investigating Decolonizing of Engineering Education" Funding is requested to travel to the 2019 Research Symposium on Engineering Education (REES) http://www.rees2019.com/ in Capetown, South Africa to co-facilitate a workshop on decolonization of engineering education. Dr. J. A. Mejia of USD and I will be facilitating with two professors from the University of Capetown: Dr. Nicky Wolmarons in the department of Civil Engineering and Director of the Center for Research in Engineering Education (CREE) and Dr. Kathy Luckett in the department of Sociology. Dr. Luckett has used decolonization to develop curricula in humanities courses. We had submitted an abstract for a paper about drawing connections between native science and engineering. In response to this, the organizers of REES invited us to develop and facilitate this workshop and introduced us to these South African colleagues (see attached email).
Marcelle	Maese	PhD	Faculty	English (CAS)	Granada, Spain	June 16-22, 2019	Conference	Project Title: "Kuxlejal Politics and Liberation Theology as Poetic Form" With your generous support, I would like to attend a week-long conference "Critical Muslim Studies: Decolonial Struggles and Liberation Theologies" taking place at the Escuela de Estudios Arabes.
Mata	Peggy	MSN, RN.	Faculty	Hahn School of Nursing	Tijuana, Mexico	July, September, November 2019	Research	Nurses Enhance Border Community Relationships The purpose of applying for the International Opportunity Grant is to enhance and expand current collaborative international research conducted by nursing students from the Hahn School of Nursing and the patients at La Morita clinic in Tijuana, Mexico.
Medina	Julia	PhD	Faculty	Languages, Cultures, Literatures (CAS)	Nicaragua and Costa Rica (various cities in both)	July 14 - Auguts 25, 2019	Conference & Research	Replanting Revolutionary Imageries: Plants and their Representation in the Nicaraguan Insurrection
Mejia	Joel	PhD	Faculty	Integrated Engineering (School of Engineering)	Cape Town, South Africa	July 7 - July 13, 2019	Conference	"Anti-Deficit Reframing in Engineering Education: A Model for the Development of Critical Consciousness among Researchers (Paper Presentation)", and "Investigating Decolonizing of Engineering Education" Funding is requested to travel to the 2019 Research Symposium on Engineering Education (REES) http://www.rees2019.com/ in Capetown, South Africa to present a paper on anti-deficit reframing of engineering education (based on work supported by a USD Strategic Initiative Grant) and to co-facilitate a workshop on decolonization of engineering education. Dr. Susan Lord and I will be facilitating with two professors from the University of Capetown: Dr. Nicky Wolmarons from the department of Civil Engineering and Director of the Center for Research in Engineering Education (CREE), and Dr. Kathy Luckett in the department of Sociology. Dr. Luckett has used decolonization to develop curricula in humanities courses. We had submitted an abstract for a paper about drawing connections between native science and engineering. In response to this, the organizers of REES invited us to develop and facilitate this workshop and introduced us to these South African colleagues (see attached email).
Meter	Alejandro	PhD	Faculty	Languages, Cultures, Literatures (CAS)	Lisbon, Portugal	July 22-July 25, 2019	Symposium	"No Limits/ Sin Limites: Portraits of the US-Mex Border". At the MLA International Symposium 2019 in Lisbon, Portugal, whose theme is "Remembering Voices Lost", I will share my findings obtained over the course of the past two years working in the US-Mexico Border. My talk will be in a panel entitled: " Explorations in Narrative Photography".
Oberle	Clara	PhD	Faculty	History (CAS)	Berlin, Germany	July 1 - August 26, 2019	Workshop Seminar & Research	a. Participation in Seminar Workshop on Exhibition Project "Photographs of Camps of the Nazi Regime/ Fotografien aus den Lagern des NS-Regime" b. Archival and special collections research at Landesarchiv, Bundesarchiv, and Staatsbibliothek Berlin on Book Project, "City in Transit: Ruins, Railways, and the Search for Order in Postwar Berlin"
Ortiz	Ivan	PhD	Faculty	English (CAS)	Athens, Greece	June 25-July 3	Conference & Seminar	The title of my project is "Romanticism, Transport Modernity, and Science Fiction: Jules Verne and H.G. Wells." I request funds to participate in the 2019 Society for Literature, Science, and the Arts (SLSA) annual conference in Athens, Greece. I will be delivering a paper and participating in a workshop that builds on research tied to my book project, Romanticism and the Aesthetics of Modern Transport. During the 2019-2020, I plan to be on sabbatical and intend to finish drafting my book manuscript. The SLSA conference will help me solidify ideas in a late chapter of my book by participating in generative conversations with international colleagues. By focusing on British and French novelists, I will be presenting internationally focused research at an international conference.
Patterson	Jessica	PhD	Faculty	Art, Architecture + Art History; Photography Area Lead (CAS)	Leiden, Netherlands	July 15 - 20	Conference	Conference panel - "The Asian Reverse Glass Painting Traditions and their European connections" at the International Council of Asia Scholars (ICAS) conference to be held at the Universiteit Leiden from 16-19 July in the Netherlands. The panel has been accepted and I have already completed "early bird" registration for the conference. My talk is entitled "Reflections of Europe in Chinese Glass: Presence and Impact in Nineteenth-Century Bangkok." Other panel members include Catherine Raymond (Northern Illinois University), Lodewijk J. Wagenaar (University of Amsterdam), Rosalien Van Der Poel (Leiden University), and Anna L. Dallapiccola (SOAS, London).
Petersen	Amanda	PhD	Faculty	Languages, Cultures and Literatures (CAS)	Valencia, Spain	July 17-21, 2019	Conference	Grappling with Femicide: Haunting and the Trauma of Gender Violence
Quezada	Reyes	EdD	Faculty	Learning & Teaching (SOLES)	Johannesberg, South Africa	July 5-11th, 2019	International Council	Attend and present at the International Council for the Education of Teachers (ICET) World Assembly to be held in Johannesburg, South Africa. There are two reasons for attending (1). I am the Chair of the international organization and (2). I am hoping to present two sessions, one with Dr. Peter Maribe, SOLES Global Coordinator on a paper titled "Internationalizing the Curriculum and Its Impact on Intercultural Competence: One University's Story where we will present data on SOLES internationalization efforts. I am also leading a second symposium session entitled "Executives for Education 2030: Addressing Common Challenges in Teacher Education" where international deans and association leaders will address UNESCO 2030 international Goal.

Rappaport	Michael	JD & Doctorate of Civil Law	Faculty	Law School	Paris, Milan, possibly Rome	10/20/19 - 11/18/19	Giving papers, leading seminars, and teaching courses	My plans are to travel to France and Italy to do work on comparative constitutional law. In Paris, I will be a non-stipendiary fellow of the Institut Veilley at Paris 2 for two weeks. In this position, I will be giving some papers to faculty as well as teaching some graduate seminars. In Italy, I have an arrangement in Milan secured. I will be giving papers and seminars at the University of Milan and at Bocconi University (and possibly Pisa). I have also applied for a fellowship in Rome at LUISS University for a week, but I do not know whether I will receive it. If the Rome arrangement does not work out, I am expecting to give talks in Bologna and Pisa.
Reimer-Barry	Emily	PhD	Faculty	Theology & Religious Studies (CAS)	Munich, Germany	Oct 9-14, 2019	Seminar	Catholic Theological Ethics in the World Church: Munich 2019 This is the eleventh international gathering of Catholic theological ethicists; I have participated in two previous conferences (Padua, Italy, in 2006, and Sarajevo, Bosnia and Herzegovina, in 2018). The purpose of the gathering is to collaborate with international colleagues abroad on internationally-focused research (the CTEWC book series, blog, and online platforms of networking). I am also the lead for our regional planning for our 2020 borderlands conference in San Diego/Tijuana, and will be solidifying partnerships at this meeting and planning for the book project that will result from our 2020 meeting.
Sheehan	Daniel	PhD	Faculty	Physics and Biophysics (CAS)	Prague, Czech Republic	13-21 July 2019	Conference	Presentation of Invited Talk at International Physics Conference: The purpose of this travel is three-fold: a) to present an invited talk at the international physics conference, "Frontiers of Quantum and Mesoscopic Thermodynamics" on my recent theoretical and experimental work concerning the new thermodynamic concept called "supradergeneracy;" b) to stay current in the field of quantum statistical mechanics; and c) to maintain long-standing scientific relationships with European colleagues and to establish new ones.
Talley	Drew	PhD	Faculty	Environmental and Ocean Sciences (CAS)	Bahía de los Ángeles, Mexico	July 14-30	Research	By land and by air: Censusing a threatened endemic cactus in an International Biosphere Reserve. This funding would allow me to work collaboratively with a botanist, a Mexican government agency, a graduate student, and a science education non-profit to take a comprehensive census of an endemic cactus species in the International Biosphere Reserve in Baja California, Mexico. The Bahía de los Ángeles biznaga, Ferocactus gatesii , lives only on 7 small islands in the bay, and nowhere else on earth, yet has never been the subject of a comprehensive census, despite poaching by horticulturalists and efforts by the Mexican government to protect them. These data will leverage new technology (high-resolution digital data capture using Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (drones)) and intensive, established methods (ground surveys) to provide baseline data on this species' population status, which will be invaluable to land managers.
Tallie	T.J.	PhD	Faculty	History (CAS)	Hamilton/Wellington, New Zealand and Victoria, Canada	23 June - 23 July	Conference & Research	"New Directions in Comparative Indigenous Criticism?" "Conjugal States: Making Monogamy in Nineteenth-Century Settler Societies" I will present my initial research on colonial New Zealand and South Africa at the NAISA 2019 New Zealand conference as part of a panel titled "New Directions in Comparative Indigenous Criticism" alongside scholars of Palestine, the United States, and the Pacific. I will then spend two weeks undertaking archival research in Wellington, New Zealand at the National Archives, before flying to Victoria, British Columbia, to undertake two more weeks of initial archival research at the Provincial Archives located there. Research in both places will go towards my second book project, tentatively titled "Conjugal States: Making Monogamy in Nineteenth-Century Settler Societies"
Tsomo	Kama Lekshe	PhD	Faculty	Theology & Religious Studies (CAS)	Paris, France	July 5 - 14, 2019	Conference	"Sacrificing Life and Limb in Contemporary Chöd Practice" The purpose of my travel is to attend the 15th Seminar of the International Association of Tibetan Studies to be held from July 7 to 13, 2019, in Paris, France. At the conference, on a panel titled Contemporary Applications of Tibetan Buddhist Contemplation Techniques, I will present a paper on the uniquely Tibetan contemplative practice known as chöd and its contemporary adaptations. This will be an opportunity for me to present my ongoing research on this practice and get feedback for revising my paper for publication. At the same time, I will have a chance to attend a week of lectures on the latest research in the field of Tibetan Studies and network with leading scholars in the field, which I anticipate will lead to fruitful scholarly collaborations in the future.
Velo	Ani	PhD	Faculty	Mathematics (CAS)	Montreal, Canada	July 6-12, 2019	International Congress	Project Title: Applications of z-Transforms to Impact Problems in Layered Elastic Media. Purpose of travel: Conference presentation and publication. Professional development to further my research and enhance my teaching with actual examples in applied mathematics.
