

Dissertation Submission and Distribution

The final phase of the dissertation process consists of the submission and distribution process as Described below. To assure the degree is awarded, complete all aspects by the deadlines for submission of the dissertation to meet graduation requirements are published in the Academic Calendar posted on the USD website. <https://catalogs.sandiego.edu/graduate/calendar/2019-2020/> You are required to submit your dissertation to ProQuest and to Digital USD.

ProQuest

You are required to submit your dissertation to ProQuest, a commercial publisher that provides access to theses and dissertations through institutional subscription to assure that the degree is awarded. With ProQuest, your dissertation will be added to their database and PQTD Global. Your dissertation will be accessible to any entity that subscribes to the database.

(Please see <http://www.proquest.com/products-services/dissertations/authors.html> for more information.)

Here are some of the characteristics of ProQuest:

- ProQuest assigns an ISBN to your dissertation.
- You retain the copyright to your work with both Digital USD and ProQuest, but ProQuest also offers the option to register your copyright with the U.S. Copyright Office (for a fee).
- If/when sales of your dissertation reach a specific threshold, ProQuest will pay you 10% in royalties.
- ProQuest adds a page (after the title page) to your dissertation to display proprietary and copyright information.
- ProQuest editors review appendices for copyright infringement and will assign additional search descriptors.
- Currently, there is no charge to submit your dissertation to ProQuest at <http://www.etsadmin.com/sandiego>. To view examples of dissertations in ProQuest, visit <http://www.sandiego.edu/library/find/results.php?letter=d>

Digital USD

Most materials in Digital USD are openly accessible to anyone with an internet connection and are easily “discoverable” by search engines, such as Google, so that others can find and read your work.

- Your work will have its own URL, which you can share on your website, job applications, social media accounts, etc.
- You will receive monthly “author reports” showing how many times your work has been downloaded, and from where in the world.

- If your dissertation contains copyrighted material from other sources, you must obtain permission from the copyright holder(s) and include this information with your dissertation.
- You retain your copyright to your work. Please put a copyright notice on the title page.
- If your dissertation contains any sensitive information that you do not want to share publicly, such as email addresses, mailing addresses, or phone numbers, please remove/redact the information prior to uploading it to Digital USD. This includes hand signatures (such as from committee members and/or on IRB forms).

Access Options

When you upload your dissertation to Digital USD, you will have two options regarding access:

1. You can choose “Open Access” or “Campus Access Only.” By choosing “Open Access,” you have the opportunity to share your work with the entire world and vastly increase your readership. You also have the ability to see from where and how often it is downloaded. If you choose “Campus Access Only,” downloads are limited to on-campus computers, although anyone world will be able to see information about the dissertation, including the title and abstract.
2. Faculty in the School of Nursing recommend that you place an “Embargo” on your dissertation. An embargo restricts public access to the full text of your dissertation for a specific period of time (the title and abstract will still be openly available during an embargo period). For example, an embargo of two years means that the full text of your dissertation will not be publicly available until two years from the date of submission.

After you have submitted your dissertation to Digital USD, it will be processed and posted and you will receive an email with the link to it. In most cases, this will occur within a month from the date you submit it.

Procedures for Online Submission of the Doctoral Dissertation

1. The PhD candidate must first obtain final approval of the dissertation, including approval of the formal preparation in accordance with all instructions in the doctoral handbook for the candidate’s program and from the dissertation committee. After completing all remaining corrections/editing required by the dissertation committee, the candidate will save the original manuscript in a Portable Document Format (PDF) file.
2. The PhD candidate will obtain the signed Approval Page from the chair and members of the committee and submit the document to the Nursing Office, Hahn 207 to be placed in the student’s file.
3. The PhD candidate is required to submit the final approved digital PDF file of the dissertation to ProQuest and to Digital USD.
