Elizabeth Kresock

She has been accepted at the University of Tulsa for a PhD in Computer Science this fall 2020!

Elizabeth will be part of the TU-Team8 Cyber fellows program, which selects 10 students from different STEM disciplines to complete an accelerated PhD in 4 years. As one of these students, she has received full tuition and a generous stipend for all 4 years! She is beyond excited and thankful to start a new journey here in the fall, and she has already been in contact with a professor who is conducting research in what she is passionate about (Machine learning/artificial intelligence for biomedical applications)!

Elizabeth would like to thank her mathematics and computer science professors and advisors who helped give her the confidence and strength to strive for opportunities like this.

Congratulations!
